

Case Study: Contract Manufacturing Hi-Res. Aerial Photography

Knowing our experience with complex contract manufacturing, a Fortune 500 imaging company came to PEKO to establish a full service relationship, requesting that we “adopt” the production of an aerial photography developing unit (6300 component BOM). PEKO met the challenge and quickly transitioned (transition planning) the production of two models (color vs. B/W) with our full complement of services including, machining, sheet metal, electro-mechanical assembly, and full functional testing. PEKO extended the life of the product through value and manufacturing engineering insuring overall success for all parties involved.
